Race Tech, Inc. is a DBA of IQ Learning Systems, Inc.

Admission to this event is limited, so enrollees should attend if at all possible. If, however, you cannot attend and wish to withdraw you will receive a full refund so long as we receive notification by December 31, 2005; a 75% refund if we receive notification by January 15, 2006, and a 50% refund if we receive notification after that.

Regardless of your withdrawal date, you have the option to transfer your payment to any new Race Tech Chassis Performance Seminar date with no additional charges even if the price has increased. However, no refunds will be issued should the price decrease for subsequent seminar dates.

If you wish to transfer your enrollment to another individual, you must notify us at least two weeks prior to the event (by January 21, 2006). That person must contact us by January 28, 2006 and bring proper identification to the event.

We reserve the right to postpone or cancel this Chassis Performance Seminar at our sole discretion. In the event of cancellation or postponement, we will inform you by phone and/or by mail with as much advance notice as possible and you will receive a FULL REFUND of your enrollment fee.

You are responsible for all travel reservations and any subsequent changes or cancellations. We strongly recommend that you make arrangements that are refundable/transferable and that you are completely familiar with all rules and policies. In the event of cancellation, you must contact all airlines, rental car agencies, hotels, and any other concerns to make cancellations and acquire refunds.

Race Tech, Inc and IQ Learning Systems, Inc., their agents and representatives, hereby disclaim any and all liabilities for expenses or losses you might incur as a result of cancellation or postponement of this seminar.
